This accomplished, the telegraph lines of the country will be at once intact from the extreme eastern to the western shores of this continent.

THE TURF.

Two Thousand Dollar Trotting Match on the Fashion Course, L. I.—Extraordinary Performance of a Four-Year Old Hambletonian.

The great match between Mr. Wm. Turnbull's sorrel mare Ella Sherwood and Mr. Monnot's bay gelding Bruno, for $1,000 a side, mile heats, best three in five, in harness, came off on Wednesday, on the Fashion course, L. I., in the presence of a large and interested attendance. The match was made early in the season, and created great interest among sporting men, on account of the well known merits of those promising young trotters. Bruno is only four years old, a handsome bay gelding, with splendid action, and was sired by Rysdick's Hambletonian out of a Canadian mare. He trotted once last year, when he made the best time for a three-year old on record, giving promise of extraordinary speed when he had got a little more age on him. Ella Sherwood has trotted three times in public, beating Jimmy Watson in her first match; succumbing to Toronto Chief in their mile heat race, but beating him in their two two-mile heat contest. In these races she showed herself possessed of unusual speed and bottom, which her performance on Wednesday amply confirms—for, after losing the first and second heats through the superior speed of her young opponent, her lasting qualities and thorough gameness enabled her to win the fourth, fifth and sixth heats, and consequently the race. She is a five year old, and was sired by Vernol's Black Hawk; but the pedigree of her dam is not known with certainty. The day was very unfavorable, owing to the high, boisterous wind which prevailed during the afternoon. The first heat was won by Bruno in 1:30, being best mile heat ever made trotted by a four year old on the Fashion course.

The Trotting Season at Cincinnati.

The attendance at the Cincinnati Trotting Park on Thursday was fair, and the trotting light, with odds in favor of the bay mare "Fannie." The race was for a purse of $100, mile heats, best three in five, to harness, open to all horses that had never beaten 2:50 in public. The following were the entries:

No. 1, H. W. Brown enters b. m. Flora May.
No. 2, O. B. Holabird enters g. g. Pilot Jessie.
No. 3, Lowe & Co. enters b. m. Fannie.
No. 4, J. Rockey enters b. g. Bay Harry.
No. 5, R. Johnson enters b. g. Chuckaluck.
No. 6, J. Thompson enters b. g. Coalcart.

"Flora May" did not arrive. Considerable difficulty attended the start, but finally, after nine or ten attempts, the word "go" was given. "Chuckaluck" run the first heat in 2:57, "Coalcart," "Pilot" and "Jessie" being distanced. On the second heat "Bay Harry" was distanced; both the remaining horses broke, however, and the heat was given to "Fannie." Time, 2:51. This left the third heat to "Fannie" and "Chuckaluck," and was won by the former in 2:54. The fourth and last heat was closely contested, but the horses behaved badly throughout, which was unfortunate for the bay gelding, and gave the heat and the race to "Fannie." Time, 2:55.

Presentation to Simon Cameron.

The meeting of the Union State Central Committee was selected as an appropriate occasion by the Union men of Philadelphia, through a chosen committee, to present to Gen. SIMON CAMERON a portrait of himself, as an evidence of the high esteem in which he is held by the Union men of that city, and an acknowledgment of his services in securing the electoral vote of the State to Mr. LINCOLN in 1864.

After the adjournment of the State Committee, the members of it repaired, by invitation, to General CAMERON's magnificent residence, where the interesting ceremony took place.

The presentation was made by Mr. JAMES A. KERNS, in behalf of the Committee, in a neat, short and appropriate speech.

In accepting the gift, Gen. CAMERON said that it would be idle to attempt a concealment of his gratification. The position of Chairman of the State Committee last year was embarrassing, and he entered upon its duties with reluctance. He was anxious for Mr. LINCOLN's re-election because he believed the safety of the country depended on it. He was embarrassed because the hearts of some prominent gentlemen in the State were with MCCLELLAN, and they might seek an excuse for not supporting LINCOLN in the fact that the speaker was at the head of the State organization. The vote at the first election fell of in consequence; but circumstances afterwards occurred which gave the State to LINCOLN. Mr. LINCOLN was able, firm, just and righteous in all things, and by his high qualification as a man, he won the confidence and affection of the whole people. Speaking of President JOHNSON, he said:

"It was the business of Mr. LINCOLN to save the Union by war—it is the duty of Mr. JOHNSON to rebuild the Government in time of peace, when every official act is harshly scrutinized. It is the President who must bring back the States and people who have been endeavoring to break up the Union and destroy the Government. In this duty he will find many conflicting interests to harmonize, and much concealed passion to contend with. But Mr. JOHNSON is a man of large experience, and has filled many high places. I have seen him, myself, during many trying occasions, when he always rose equal to the duty of the moment. Such is ever the case with great men."

Of the Mexican question he said: "Perhaps on no other subject than that of French occupation in Mexico, has there ever been a more perfect unanimity of sentiment, and when it becomes necessary to drive the French armies from their insurpations in that country, there will be no difference of opinion as to the mode and manner of accomplishing that result."

At the conclusion of General CAMERON's remarks, the company retired to the dining-room to partake of an ample collation. Among those present were General MOORHEAD, Representative in Congress from this district; Hon. E. MCPHERSON, Clerk of the National House of Representatives; Brig. Gen. STAMBAUGH; Hon. W. H. KEMBLE, State Treasurer; Hon. W. H. ARMSTRONG, Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth, and many other distinguished citizens of Pennsylvania.

The affair passed off pleasantly, and the party separated in excellent spirits.

The Tribune pronounces the figures of the Herald, as to receipts for papers the past year, fictitious so far as the Tribune is concerned. The Post has done the same. In a court of justice this would be enough to overthrow the entire testimony.

The railroad between the cities of Washington and Richmond is now fully opened. The bridge over the river Rappahannock was finished on Monday. Two trains will run daily between the two cities, beginning on Monday next.

Edward Howden was murdered near the Gosport Navy Yard last Sunday. He was the sailor who made his escape with Lieutenant Cushing after destroying the rebel ram Albemarle. One Henry Smith has been arrested on suspicion of being the murderer.

Also a purse of $100 for a wherry race between Messrs. Hamill and Radford.

A largely attended meeting of army officers was held in Chicago on Wednesday, for the purpose of organizing some society or association, which would, after they were discharged from the service, keep them still in in a measure connected with each other, and draw them together occasionally in social intercourse.

The citizens of Richmond are considerably exercised in their minds on account of two regiments of colored troops ordered to duty in that vicinity. These regiments were lately at Point Lookout, guarding the rebels, but that post being broken up, they were ordered to report to General Terry for duty.

Latest advices from Egypt confirm the announcement that the cholera was becoming milder at Alexandria, but increasing at Cairo. Thus far the Soudan and Upper Egypt have escaped the epidemic. It is but lightly felt in the Isthmus of Suez, and has attacked only a small number of the laborers employed on the canal.

THE CHICAGO STABBING CASE.—Miss Fransted, the young lady so brutally stabbed by Mrs. Terhune, a few days since, is slowly recovering, though still in a critical condition. She has commenced suit against her would-be murderer to recover $20,000 damages. Mrs. Terhune is now under bonds of $5,000 for her appearance in the Recorder's Court to answer the charge of assault with intent to kill.

The Port Royal (S. C.) New South, commenting upon the rapid improvement and good health of that place, tells this story of Jeff. Davis:

Jeff. said to us, on board the Clyde, "I supposed the heat and fevers of this coast would have driven you away long ago. I had no idea the Northern people could stand the climate so well."

This was not the only mistake that Davis made in his estimate of the Northern people.

The election in Richmond on Wednesday resulted in the choice of the old incumbents for Clerks of the County Courts, and Surveyor, there being no opposition to them. For Commonwealth Attorney two candidates ran, Young and Courtney, the first of whom had been a passive rebel, and the latter an active one, under the Jeff. Davis dynasty, having been a Captain of a battery during the war. He was elected, of course, the feeling of the citizens running strong that way.

The statement of the New York Herald, that the army rolls show six hundred thousand names of soldiers yet in the service, and that the Paymaster General has filed, or soon will file, requisitions for three hundred and fifty million dollars for the payment of the army the 1st of July, is wholly incorrect in both particulars. The rolls now contain less than two hundred thousand names, and the Paymaster General asks for less than two hundred millions to pay all hands up to the time specified.

Reports from Northerners now traveling in the Southern States, relative to the undeveloped wealth presented on every hand in those States, are continually received. The following extract from a letter received at the Land Office, from Arkansas, a few days ago, is but a fair sample of confident expressions in this regard: "The mineral resources of this State are enormous. Coal, lead, silver and gold are all represented liberally, and an abundance of petroleum is undoubted. Results will soon be developed that will astonish all. We think this wealth has been hidden under a cloud."

THE LARGEST army in the world, in proportion to its population, is that of a country which for more than fifty years has had nothing to do with war, except in a civil war of very short duration—Switzerland, to wit: This little republic has a population considerably less than that of London (2,510,404) and has an army one-third larger than that of Great Britain, 198,291 men. This includes the militia, but not the Landsturn, or army of defense, which comprises all men above forty-five capable of bearing arms.

INSANITY OF LOVE

The Harris-Burroughs Case,

Killing a Faithless Lover no Crime.

A New Code of Love and Justice.

Counsel's Description of his Client.

The public have been made acquainted with the circumstances of the Harris-Burroughs case as brought out on the trial of Miss Harris, in Washington, and the fact that she has been acquitted on the ground of insanity. In this connection the following will be read with interest.

[From the Cincinnati Times, 14th inst.]

The trial of a young woman in the capital of the country for shooting her lover, contains many points of interest. It is not the old, old story of love and seduction. It is a case, though a somewhat aggravated case we admit, of modern flirtation. Many years ago, away out West, there was a little Irish girl, Mary Harris by name. She was pretty, black-eyed and roguish. She was poor. Her parents were dead, and she lived with some relatives, who treated her kindly, and gave her such advantages as they were able. Presently she met a young man who took a fancy to her fresh morning face and short dresses, and ingratiated himself into the good opinion of the old people, and visited her often, as a young man of two or three and twenty might visit a child of twelve. He called her his rose-bud and his play-mate, and his puss in-boots, we dare say. They took long walks together, and sat by the river-side whole days, and read fairy tales. And so they parted for a time.

But our little Irish girl is poor and is growing to womanhood, and has to do something for a living. She is sent therefore to a neighboring village and becomes salesmaid for a jolly old shopkeeper, who, after a while, is very fond of her, for she is young, honest and handsome. One day she gets a letter. The young man with the brown moustache has not forgotten her, and wants still to be her dear, dear friend. And indeed he is that, for this bright, hearty Irish girl has a warm heart of her own, and is grateful and constant. So she writes him a ready answer, not very well spelled, perhaps, but cheery and robust, like herself. She is sixteen; he is approaching thirty—a fair contrast. He has education and an air about him; she has no education to speak of, but keen appreciation and ambition. They write each other a great many letters—all after the usual style—first friendship—next avowal—finally love. This must have been a very sad case of love, too, for, as the little girl progresses with her onward march to womanhood, the lithe and buoyant spirit deepens into sentiment and gradually becomes intense. She loves her lover to distraction, and they meet once more, and she is his darling little Mollie.

At this time Mary Harris must have been what the young gentlemen call a killing little fascinator. She was just past seventeen—a tidy waist—a trim figure—a swan-like neck—a comely face—not too tall, luxuriant hair and naviete. All the larks around town were half mad about her. She wore a bit of a gray cloak and a gipsey hat. But she cared not a fig for the whole of them. She was wrapped up in her old bachelor, as she called him, and would follow him to the end of the world. She said so, at least, and he believed her, and began to practise upon her love and trust. But Irish virtue is an article of stubborn quality, and often defies the fiercest passion. In this case, at any rate, it did so. The lover, failing to carry his point, gradually grew tired of little Mollie, after a flirtation of five or six years. Men very often, too often, we fear, weary of their little Mollies through such a long siege of love, and if they have no mind to make them their little wives, and are not able to make them anything else, are quite ready to give them over. The old bachelor, now getting into his thirties, was tired; he wanted to marry somebody else; he did not want to marry his little Mollie, so he gave her over. Yes, he gave her over, gradually however, by neglect and absence, and finally married another woman, and went to Washington to hold an office under the Government.

What must have been the feelings of this wild little Irish girl, with her warm heart, her active spirit, her keen sensibilities, her ardent love, to find herself cast off like a worn out garment, after five years of constancy and devotion? Love is a cruel passion. It is bitter-sweet. It has its dark lines at best, and to this persecuted, abandoned girl they must have been hideously dark, for she took to brooding, and grew wan and pale, and suffered and was not herself any more. It was thus that she resolved in her bitterness and wrath, in her misery and inanition, that she would follow him and kill him. Kill him, yes, for had he not killed love and life in her? Had he not married another woman, and how can you offend a woman who loves you, more mortally than by marrying some one else?

She went to Washington. She sought the department in which he was employed. It was a dull, cold January afternoon. The janitor at the door showed her up the flight of stone steps, and through the long hall, and pointed her out the very room, unconscious as a Government janitor must have been, of her bloody purpose. Just as she reaches the door she meets her victim coming out with a friend. He sees her, and no doubt a prophetic light flashes within him, for he exclaims, "My God." Two reports—sharp, ringing pistol shots and echoing and re-echoing throughout those vast corridors and columns—follow in quick succession, and the false lover lies a dead man upon the gray matting of the floor.

The deed is done. The deception of years is expiated. The revenge of months of wild and and lonely meditation is complete. Alas, poor, frail humanity! Little rosebud has done it. Little Mollie is a murderer. O, roguish eyes of black! O, pink and peachen cheek! O, hood, and wimple, and short frocks and pantelettes! Never any more peace, never any more innocences, never any more calm, sweet sleep. Boots it to you, now that he is dead, that he was the husband of another woman, that he wronged and deserted you?

"Vows of unheard of and endless devotion,
How ye have faded away!"

So goes the mill. A little puff of smoke. A little scent of powder. A few drops of blood. And the little Irish girl is down stairs sobbing, without shedding a tear, and crying, "My God, why did I do it?" The great Secretary comes, lord of the nation's Treasure. She clings to him, and kneels before him, and he, too, asks her why she did it? She knows no reason, except that "she loved him so much." There it is. It was not hate, but love. She loved him so much that she would rather he were dead than that another woman should have him. A woman to the last! Who would have her otherwise?

They took her away to jail. They lodged her in a dungeon. And there she has lain ever since. Most of the time she has been ill, and when she has not been ill, she has been depressed, sullen and silent. They have brought her out to try her for her life, and the court room is crowded daily with eager spectators. It is the little Irish girl no longer. All the bloom has gone. The fire has faded from the roguish eyes. The cheek is pallid and sunken. She does not care to live, but they will not let her die. They will set her at liberty, and she will live a broken-hearted woman, or perish in a mad-house, for they say she is mad already.

Poor little rosebud! Poor little Mollie! Poor little, hasty pass-in-boots!

In the course of the trial Mr. Bradley, counsel for the accused, testified as to her appearance when he had an interview with her. The following are some of the interesting portions:

"At first her features were fixed as wax, her eyes resting upon vacancy, as though she saw beyond the walls of the prison, and she did not wink. The pupil was widely dilated as before. I asked what had happened? Had she been alarmed? Had she been treated with discourtesy or rudeness? Her answers were in monosyllables. I asked if she was thinking over the last two years of her life. She then aroused, nodded her head, and in return said: 'Mr. Bradley, do you think me a very bad girl? They say I killed Burroughs, and have locked me up, and it must be so, but I can't realize it. I liked Burroughs. I can see him now. I have seen him here in this very chamber since I have been here. It cannot be so.' And then she twisted her handkerchief and looked up with beseeching eyes and said: 'Tell me the truth. I know that you will tell me the truth.' I did tell her. I talked with her till the tears began to flow, and then she calmed down and rapidly became blithe and cheerful.

* * * She told me of pranks she had played on Burroughs, how she used to plague Mrs. A., where she lived, and a dozen things, showing how full of life she had been, and said: 'You ought to have seen me then, Mr. Bradley; I weighed one hundred and sixteen pounds. I was a fat dowdy. I loved to laugh, and dance, and play, and I was as full of mischief as I could be. Oh, how happy, how happy I was!' and suddenly she stopped, looked me full in the face and said: 'Mr. Bradley do you think me a very bad girl? Do you not believe God will forgive me? I know I have done wrong, but I have prayed to be forgiven. I pray daily for it. I have been wicked, but indeed I did not mean it. I did not mean to hurt anybody. I would not have hurt Burroughs for the world. I did like Burroughs. I did love him, and I was so happy—so happy. How did I do it? I know it must have been me, and they are right to shut me up;' and much more of the same kind. I rather encouraged her to talk thus, till an opportunity should arise to divert her attention. It came, and touched some chord which brought tears, and she calmed down. The next morning I tried to get Dr. Nichols to see her, but failed. I then went myself, and found her still very pale, with marks of exhaustion in her face, walking her room. * * * *

"After a little while she said: 'Mrs. Abbey has been here, and she says Mrs. Burroughs is in Chicago, and she thinks she does not hate me. She says she has a little child—Burrough's child. I want you to go with me and see it. Oh! how I would love it. That would not be wrong, would it, Mr. Bradley? His child! Oh! if the mother would only not hate me, and would let me see the little child and give it one kiss, I would be so happy. I would not hurt it. It would not be wrong, would it, Mr. Bradley?'

"In that brief time her whole aspect had changed. I cannot describe the change. Her face, during parts of what she said, was fully illuminated. There was the most wonderful expression in the eyes; a softness, and delicacy, and tenderness, such as I had never seen, and that followed and mingled with a deep and hopeless sorrow that I had never witnessed before. Just at this time there came floating into the room fragments of the music of some of the bands in the grand review then in progress. She stopped, listened, looked at me, and said, with perfect quietness of manner: 'I forgot every body is out to-day but me; you want to go and see the review. I am sorry I detained you.' I said, 'No, I saw one yesterday.' 'Yes,' she said, 'but our Western men are to pass to-day, and I'll tell you at another time what I wanted to say. I wish you would see our Western men.' She was perfectly composed, and I presently left her.

The verdict of the jury created a most remarkable scence. It was five o'clock when they returned. A few obstructions delayed their passing out, and it was seven minutes past four when the last of them disappeared. At ten minutes past four they commenced returning. The Judge made no charge, having already instructed them as to the law; but told the jury, ere they went, he was satisfied they had pretty much made up their minds and would return a verdict in a few minutes, and so they did. They answered to their names, were asked whether they found the prisoner guilty or not guilty, and Mr. Scrivener, the foreman, said "not guilty."

Up on chairs, tables and window sills jumped the crowd, uttering cheer after cheer, the ladies waving their handkerchiefs, the men their hats. The Marshal stood moving his mouth—a ridiculous but piteous sight. He was evidently saying something, probably about order; but those nearest to him could not hear him. Every cheer given inside was echoed by the throng outside. Miss Harris fainted. She was taken out of the room by Mr. Bradley. The Judge left the bench, and the crowd hustled each other out of the room to mingle with the hundreds outside, who were awaiting to see the heroine pass out, which fifteen minutes after she did, leaning on the arm of Mr. Bradley. Another series of cheers went up. She entered a waiting carriage, the Misses Devlin following, and off they went. The Judge himself, together with his wife, waited on the opposite corner of the street to see her pass. Thus ended the Harris trial, the most exciting that has taken place before a civil tribunal in Washington since the celebrated case so often alluded to in favor of and against Miss Harris—the Sickles case.

A Tragic Occurrence.

The Late Great Boat Race.

Stevens Charged with Selling the Race

He Kills His Accuser.

Great Excitement in Poughkeepsie City

THE RACE DECLARED FOUL.

The Referee and Judges Make Affidavit that their Decision was Given through Intimidation.

On Tuesday last, it will be remembered, the great four-oared boat race for the championship of American waters, came off on the Hudson [illegible] at Poughkeepsie. The contestants were a boat rowed by New Yorkers and one rowed by residents of Poughkeepsie. The race was for the championship and for a purse of $6,000. The stake represented but a fraction of the sums bet on the result. All the sporting fraternity were on hand with their "pile." The New Yorkers backed up their boat, John Morrissey staking several hundred dollars upon her. The Poughkeepsians and boys of the river counties backed the Poughkeepsie boat, and it is estimated that not less than $100,000 depended on the race. It appears that the stroke-oarsman of the boat, named Stevens, was suspected of desiring to play foul before the boats started. He had, it was reported, agreed to permit the Poughkeepsie boat to be beaten—he being the principal man, a great deal depended on his efforts. The New Yorkers had given their opponents large odds, and would have been out of pockets an immense sum if the race had gone against them. To make a "sure thing of it," it was reported that they had bought up Stevens.

The friends of Mr. Stevens denied the imputation in the most forcible language, but could not convince a portion of the public that the charge was unfounded, and he was denounced and threatened that if he carried out his alleged intention it should cost him his life. The betting instantly took a change upon the announcement of suspicion against Stevens, and several of the heaviest betters on the Poughkeepsie boat began to "hedge" in order to avoid losses.

Several delegations waited upon Stevens, and on informing him of the report in circulation, he emphatically denied the charge, which, he said, was circulated by his personal enemies to ruin him. He insisted that his performances in the race would be the best test of the truthfulness of the charge, and offered to wager a heavy sum that the Poughkeepsie crew would win the race. The excitement was thus calmed for a while, and the betting was spiritedly renewed.

When the race came off, it is said that a boat followed the Poughkeepsie crew, with special instructions concerning Stevens, but as he showed great energy in his performances, he was not molested; and though the race resulted in favor of the New York boat, he was generally exonerated from the charge of collusion with the victors. Several protests were entered, however, against giving up the main stakes, and in a number of instances side bets were announced as "off."

Great excitement followed the close of the contest, and there were lively times in Poughkeepsie all night Tuesday. About ten o'clock on Tuesday night, Stevens, with some of his friends, were standing near Dobb's Saloon discussing the result. A party, of which a returned soldier named Thomas De Mott was one, entered into a discussion with Stevens and his friends. De Mott had bet heavily on the race, and, it seems, believed the charges against Stevens. What followed is thus described:

De Mott charged Stevens with having deliberately sold his friends and insured the defeat of the Poughkeepsie crew. Stevens denied the charge, and offered to bet De Mott that it could not be proved. De Mott denounced Stevens in strong terms, which exasperated Stevens to such a degree that he struck De Mott a powerful blow on the temple, felling him to the earth.

A severe row then began, but through the interference of several friends of both the men it was promptly quelled. When De Mott was picked up he was discovered to be dead, to the surprise of every one who witnessed the affair, and who supposed that he had only been stunned. Upon an examination being made, De Mott was found to have received a severe contusion of the forehead, and on the back of the head. Stevens immediately surrendered himself to the authorities, and was locked up for examination.

The body of De Mott was taken to the City Hall to await an inquest. The news of his death spread like wildfire through the city, and created such an excitement that threats were made against several New York sporting men in the city, but fortunately no retaliation took place. It is but justice to these gentlemen to add, that they are heavy losers themselves by the race, having backed the Poughkeepsie crew to a considerable amount.

The unfortunate death of De Mott, who was favorably known in Poughkeepsie, continued to be the all-absorbing topic of conversation yesterday. Stevens, it is said, has evinced the utmost grief in the matter. The body of the deceased will probably be buried to-day.

Telegraphic dispatches from Poughkeepsie were yesterday received by sporting men in New York, asserting that the referee and two judges in the late race have made affidavits that the race is foul, and that the decision was rendered through intimidation.

Which the loyal black population throughout the South must expect as soon as the strong arm of the War Department is withdrawn from their protection.

A well to do colored man was sued for a claim of seventy-five dollars. The evidence of the white plaintiff was taken—that of various colored men offered by the defendant was refused. The officers in charge of the Freedmen's Bureau at that place appeared and cited the orders of that Bureau and of the War Department to show that the justice had no jurisdiction in the case. The magistrate proceeded to give judgment in full for the plaintiff, and issued an execution.

The Superintendent of Freedmen placed a guard around the property levied on, and reported the case to Gen. Howard, who has written a letter to the Mayor of Alexandria, requesting that all cases arising between colored and white men may be turned over to the military tribunals. If the request is not complied with the military authorities will be called upon to enforce the orders of the Department. At present the freedmen have no chance at all before the local tribunals at Alexandria. The Mayor and other magistrates declare boldly that they will adhere to the old Virginia law, and that whenever any law compels them to receive the testimony of a negro they will at once resign.

Generals Torbitt, Sickles and DeTrobiand arrived in the city to-night from Winchester. One thousand five hundred horses and mules broke out of the corral at Stephens' Depot, near Winchester, last night, and are scattered over the country.

The 22d Pennsylvania Cavalry and the 2d U. S. Cavalry were immediately dispatched in pursuit of the animals.

THE DETROIT CONVENTION.

Hon. J. F. Potter's Speech.

Petition of Canadians.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The Herald says: A petition to the Governor General of Canada is being circulated for signatures in Montreal and other Canadian towns, praying that investigation may be had regarding the statements made at the Detroit Commercial Convention, by Mr. Potter, United States Consul General, and reports to that effect, that that gentleman has during his residence in Canada, been engaged in secret efforts to bring the annexation of that province to the United States.

Mr. Potter stated at the Commercial Convention as an argument in favor of abrogating the reciprocity treaty, that within two years from its discontinuance the Canadians will be applying for admission into the Union.

FROM CALIFORNIA.

Progress of the Russian Telegraph.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—The bark Golden Gate, the flag-ship of the Russian telegraph expedition, sailed to-day for Plover Bay, with Colonel Bulkley, commander of the expedition, his staff and a surveying party. The expedition sailed on the 12th for the Gulf of Anadier and the shores of Behring's Straits. The land force of the expedition comprises about 1,500 men. Three other vessels are attached to the service—the bark Palmetto, which recently sailed from Nanamo with coal, the schooner Milton Badger, now loading at Nanamo, and the bark Clara Bell, now en route from New York to Sitka direct.

The fleet is under the command of Captain C. W. Scammon, of the revenue service. The vessels carry from two to six guns each. The Clara Bell carries a cable to be laid across Behring's Straits, and a small steamer for river explorations. Col. Bulkley himself will examine the best crossing place in Asia. It is four hundred miles wide with an island in the middle. The land force is to go at once on the whole line from New Minister to near the mouth of the Amoor river, a distance of 4,000 miles.

The ship Aquilla, which sunk in this harbor with the monitor Comanche, and was afterwards raised and put afloat, ran ashore a few miles below here. The steamer Merrimac gave her relief.

FROM NORTH CAROLINA.

Rejoicing Over the Abolition of Slavery.

NEW YORK, July 21.—North Carolina is making active exertions to secure emigration to her territory. Cols. J. M. Heck and Kemp are at the St. Nicholas Hotel for the purpose of opening offices in the North to furnish information and encourage emigration. They say that the people of North Carolina are anxious to have the State filled with Northern settlers, and desire to have their resources fully developed. The feeling is very strong in favor of the new system of labor, and a large majority express their gladness at the abolition of slavery. They offer for sale or lease large quantities of land, for cotton, tea, lead mines and water power, and offer liberal inducements to emigration. This is one of the most encouraging signs from any of the lately rebellious States.

Important Order from Gen. Canby.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The Tribune's Washington special says: In accordance with orders from the War Department, Gen. Canby has issued an order dated New Orleans, July 10, directing all officers and enlisted men about to be mustered out of the service, to be as far as part of the army, be discharged at such convenient points as is consistent with the interests of the service.

Payment of Discharged Officers.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The War Department has issued a circular to the officers of the mustered out regiments, to the effect that they will be paid on the certificate of the mustering officer that they have rendered all required returns and property accounts and are not indebted to the Government, and authorizing the affidavit of the mustering officer to be received as evidence of non-indebtedness.

Sinking of a Vessel.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 21.—Capt. Potter, of the bark "A No. 1," of Providence, writes from [illegible] that the [illegible] sailed from Akyab for Falmouth, England, on the 20th of April, [illegible] was struck by the Cyclone on the 26th of April and foundered. All hands were picked up by a British vessel and landed at Batavia.

American Minister at Paris.

APPLICATIONS FOR PARDON.

The Rebel Lieut. Col. Mulford.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Hon. Edward Jordan, Solicitor of the Treasury, has, since the appointment of Mr. Risley as Assistant Solicitor, made arrangements to give increased vigor to the measures pertaining to the prevention of frauds and depredation on the revenue. The Solicitor being also entrusted by law with the duty of suppressing counterfeiting of Government paper and coins, has appointed Col. William P. Wood as his assistant in that particular branch of the business.

This gentleman has recently returned from Ohio, having been successful in breaking up Jim Brown's gang of counterfeiters, and securing their arrest at Akron and elsewhere in that State. The parties have acknowledged their guilt. There is a fund at the disposal of the Solicitor, out of which rewards are promptly paid for such information as will lead to the suppression of frauds and punishment of the persons engaged in them.

The Postmaster General has arranged the compensation and other preliminaries for resuming the transportation of Southern mails at the earliest practicable period, and is gradually restoring the service in those States.

Several of the heads of departments are now busy looking over the lists of Federal officers whose commissions are about to expire. Re-appointments are already numerous as compared with the entire number. New appointments will, it is supposed, be comparatively few.

Applications for pensions increased during June last twenty-five per cent. over previous months. Over thirteen or fourteen millions of dollars are required for such payment during the present fiscal year.

Mr. Bigelow, our Minister at Paris, as soon as he saw the version which had been given by Mr. Rouher, Secretary of State, in France, to the conversation which had previously taken place between Mr. Bigelow and M. Drouyn de L'Huys, Minister for Foreign Affairs, concerning Mexico, addressed a note to that gentleman denying the statements made by Mr. Rouher. M. Drouyn de L'Huys answered, admitting Mr. Bigelow's statement to be correct, and the statement of Mr. Rouher as incorrect. This correspondence has been long since received at the State Department, and in due time will be submitted to Congress.

The announcement made some time since that W. H. Wallace, late delegate from Idaho, had been appointed Governor of that Territory, was, we understand, incorrect. Caleb Lyon will continue to be Governor.

The following appointments were made to-day by the President: Charles G. Elford, Assessor of Internal Revenue for the third district of South Carolina; James C. Aiken, Marshal for the district of Delaware, Peter Cellmaker, Marshal of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania; David E. Jackson, Marshal of the District of Wisconsin; Washington Bonitant, Marshal of the District of Maryland; S. B. McCulloch, Marshal of the District of Western Virginia; Henry D. Barrows, Marshal of the District of California; Earl Bill, Marshal of the Southern District of Ohio; Robert B. Carnahan, District Attorney of Western Pennsylvania; Lander Holmes, District Attorney of Washington Territory.

The Secretary of State, accompanied by his son, Meredith Seward and his wife, and Major Welson, United States Army, returned this morning from their trip to point Lookout, much benefitted by their excursion. The health of Frederick Seward is rapidly improving. He will leave Washington next week for Cape May.

Over two hundred applications for pardons were filed to-day in the office of the Attorney General, and pardons were granted to about sixty applicants—all belonging to the twenty thousand dollar class. Among the latter is J. E. Pray, formerly Secretary of State of Tennessee.

Christophe Hyde, of Alexandria, Va., sentenced by military commission to imprisonment in Clinton prison, New York, was to-day pardoned by the President.

Lieutenant-Colonel Wm. E. Mulford, of the rebel army, formerly of Indiana, is permitted by the President to leave the United States never to return.

Interesting Document.

Report to Rebel Congress.

Inside View of the Rebellion.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The Herald publishes the report made to the rebel congress of the working of the rebel commissary department. This report gives a view of the resources of the Southern Confederacy at the commencement of the war, and of difficulties encountered by the rebel government in the progress of the struggle in the matter of feeding its forces. It shows that it was utterly impossible for the rebel States to produce supplies enough to sustain the rebel armies, and that they never did so.

It also shows that many attempts were made to feed those armies by means that ran the blockade, but it was all crippled by the stupidity of Jeff. Davis and his associates.

This report makes some remarkable disclosures of the operations of men on our side of the lines.

It shows that there were on our side in 1862 a great many men ready to furnish the rebels with all the necessary army supplies, and that these men had sufficient influence with our Government to be able to get their boat loads of stores through the lines and to evade all watchfulness of the Treasury Department and military commanders at Memphis, New Orleans, and other points.

They did business on so large a scale that they would contract at once to deliver thirty thousand hogsheads of bacon, thousands of sacks of salt and flour for the army, coffee in abundance, and other necessary stores.

Contracts were made between Northern men and the Southern Government for the supply of the Southern armies, and Lee's army was feed in that way to a great extent early in 1863. Jeff. Davis approved the plan at the start in the belief that the withholding of cotton would compel the recognition of the Confederacy at an early day.

The report discloses the impotence in many points of the rebel government and errors and weaknesses of Davis. It discloses also the fact that the rebellion was kept alive and the war prolonged by villainies carried on from our side of the lines.

Harvard College.

PATRIOTISM OF HER SONS.

Highly Interesting Ceremonies.

BOSTON, July 21.—Interesting ceremonies took place at Harvard College to-day, in commemoration of the patriotism of her sons. Harvard contributed 460 of her graduates to uphold the standard of the country, of whom ninety-six were either killed in battle or died from the effects of wounds or disease. The number in attendance at the commemoration exercises was about 2,000.

A large number of invited guests were present, among others, including Major General Meade and staff, Major General Marcy, Major General Barlow, Major General Hayes, Brig. General Eustis, Brig. General Alvord, Brig. Gen. W. F. Bartlett, Brig. General Sargent, Brig. General Cogswell, Brevet Maj. General Devins, Col. Savage of the 12th New York Cavalry, and Col. T. W. Higginson. Gov. Andrew and staff were also present.

The main features of the commemoration were a procession from Gore Hall to the First Church, where an eloquent and touching oration was delivered by Rev. Dr. Putnam, and a banquet under a canvas tent on the college ground, at which plates were laid for 1,400 guests. Hon. Chas. G. Loring presided at the banquet.

The Next Speaker.

On this subject the Washington correspondent of the Independent has the following: I suppose I do not state a piece of news when I say that Mr. Colfax will be re-elected Speaker; certainly it is not to any member of Congress. It is admitted on all hands, and there is no rival candidate for the place. Now it is very well known that Mr. Colfax is excessively particular on the subject of the oath. In the last Congress he required every member, before being sworn in as a member, to take the stringent oath of loyalty. He will again, next winter, demand that every member shall take this oath, and even if [illegible] the Republicans have the power to elect their candidates for speaker even if [illegible] the roll and participated in the election. Under any conceivable circumstances the Union party will control the next House in a way that cannot be mistaken. What we have to fear is that a reconstruction policy, [illegible] will be deliberately adopted by a Republican [illegible] to give the ballot to the black [illegible]

SATURDAY, JULY 22, 1865.

UNION STATE CONVENTION.

A State Convention will be held at Harrisburg on THURSDAY, THE 17TH AUGUST, 1865, at 12 o'clock M., for the purpose of putting in nomination a State Ticket, to be supported by the friends of the Union at the coming October election.

The earnest and zealous labors of a loyal people secured the great victory in 1864, and made the war, which our enemies denounced as a failure, a glorious success in 1865.

Our flag has been maintained—our enemies destroyed—our Government preserved, and peace re-established. Let every friend who aided in this result take measures to be represented in that Convention. We must see to it that the fruits of our success are not lost to the nation.

Business of vast importance will be presented for its consideration, and every district in the State should be represented.

By order of the Union State Central Committee.

Crop Correspondence.

We shall feel under great obligations to whoever will write us, briefly and reliably, concerning the crops wherever the COMMERCIAL circulates. It is facts we want, and at the earliest possible moment, concerning every crop—not forgetting the grape. Will growers and others take a little time to contribute what they can to render as complete as possible information which, when collected, will be of great value?

Sympathy for Traitors.

In the estimation of the Democratic press there is quite a difference between a traitor and a loyal citizen; in fact there is a difference in the estimation of any press, and, very naturally the differences do not agree. To be more explicit, we say the Democratic press speak of arch-traitors in mild, sympathetic language, while at the same time they employ billingsgate to express their opinions of loyal men. Our Democratic cotemporary, the Post, belongs to that class. In one of its leading articles yesterday it makes a plea in behalf of JEFF. DAVIS, a man guilty of every crime in the decalogue, and with lamb like mildness and sympathy of speech, calls him a "Prisoner of State," "fallen leader of the unsuccessful revolution" (mark the studied language) "white-headed old man." The gingerly manner in which these terms are worded, leads us to conclude that the Post regards JEFF. DAVIS as guiltless. Its language appears to have been chosen with exceeding great care, and when it speaks of him as the "fallen leader of the unsuccessful revolution" it is plain that it does not regard his efforts to overthrow the Federal government as a rebellion, and that consequently he is not guilty of treason. We cannot attribute such language to the polite breeding of the Post, for its columns since the commencement of the war have teemed with the bitterest, vilest abuse of men and measures employed in the suppression of its "unsuccessful revolution."

Nor is this all. The Post, and its class of journals, were and still are diligent in making intimations as to the innocence of the assassins of President LINCOLN, and especially of Mrs. SURRATT, whose innocence they are openly proclaiming. We would not have so much objection to this course, were it not that it is intended to prove, if possible, the tyranny of the Government, and to disgrace it in the estimation of the world. The sympathy of that press is not limited to the cases we have mentioned, but is entertained for all the leaders and all the followers in the "unsuccessful revolution."

Now, on the other hand, no language was too strong for President LINCOLN, during his life, and every member of his Cabinet, men whose hearts were earnestly devoted to the suppres- of the rebellion and the punishment of treason. The files of the Post show such terms as "tyrant," "despot," "autocrat," "blockhead," "imbecile," and the like, as applied to our wise, noble, warm-hearted and Christian LINCOLN; while to-day we read of the perjured traitor in the sympathetic language we have already quoted. It is unnecessary to say anything of its mode of speaking of STANTON, CHASE, and others who have labored earnestly in support of the Government—we have devoted too much space to the subject already.

Punishment of Jeff. Davis.

We are aware that our excellent national constitution prohibits "cruel and unusual punishments." We do not question the propriety of this prohibition, either in the letter or spirit of it. It is not in harmony with the high tone of Republican civilization, to break culprits on the wheel, to hang them in chains on gibbets, to cut up their dead bodies into quarters, or even to shoot them away from cannon's mouths, after the latest English style of treatment for rebels.

But Mr. DAVIS' crime has in it so much atrocity, and has involved the death and suffering of so vast a number of unoffending people, and the utter desolation of so wide an extent of country, that ordinary punishment does not appear to be commensurate with his guilt. Imprisonment for life might be a mere seclusion from society, and society can have but few charms for him. Death on the gallows, though ignominious might be mitigated by the illusion, which has intoxicated so many living and dying political wrong doers—that history will vindicate his reputation. And exile from the country might be only a restoration to his best and only friends, on the other side of the great waters. The case is undoubtedly a perplexing one. The The question how to dispose of the offender, on his conviction, we suppose will have to be decided according to the constitution and the laws.

Still, it cannot be deemed presumptuous to make a suggestion or two. Years agone, when LAURENCE STERNE's works were part of the popular reading, which they never ought to have been, we remember to have been highly pleased with Uncle TOBY's humane and magnanimous treatment of an impudent and persistent offender. At the dinner table, the good natured old gentleman was annoyed by a fly which was satisfied with no lighting place, in all the wide space around him, but Uncle TOBY's nose. After incredible patience under the annoyance, and indescribable motions of the hand for the capture of the animal, it was at last taken, as DAVIS was. And our first suggestion, meaning, however, no disparagement to the constitution and laws, is that his punishment correspond with that of the fly. Uncle TOBY rose from the table, and raising a window, put the fly out, saying, "Go poor devil, there is room enough in the world for me and thee."

Perhaps the most "cruel and unusual punishment" that a severe fancy could suggest would be, neither death nor banishment, nor entire liberty; but a pilgrimage that would embrace the most abundant and pungent auxiliaries to a wholesome repentance. Let him be placed in a carriage—an open one for the sake of the views—and visit all the battle grounds, and cemeteries, and desolate fields, and prisons, and shattered cities with which his insane ambition has covered the Southern States. Let him travel slowly and alone. Let him not have even one of his fellow conspirators with him. Let him pitch his tent nightly on one of the many grave-yards that his crime has filled, resting his head on the little hillock that covers a brave soldier's remains, and daily move through the dreary scenes, under the stern or sorrowful gaze of the people whom he ruined. This would indeed, be a cruel punishment. The Constitution does not allow it. We only allude to it as one that fancy might suggest, as more severe in its justice, than that which human law prescribes as the punishment of such crime as his. Such a long pilgramage, through the once beautiful land, wintering and summering among graves and ruins, the fruits of the rebellion, seeing nought of the cheerfulness and plenty that everywhere once smiled under the old flag, meeting only the reproachful glance of widows and orphans—all this, coupled with consuming thoughts of his own wild ambition and its fall, would inflict an inner punishment worse than death, a punishment to which none affords so close a parallel as that which uttered its misery in the words:

> "Which way I fly, is hell; myself am hell."

We do not adhere to these fancies with any degree of tenacity. The stern realities of a legal process will suit the case better, probably. In its view the case is plain, and the old-fashioned punishmant will answer the purpose exceedly well.

WORD EATING.—Words are poor diet, at the best. They are never eaten with anything of a relish. A person is always in great straits when he has to eat his own words. In fact, they sometimes have to be crammed down his own throat. We have been amused, to see the great London Times oracle dining for the past three months on this kind of rations. And it has plenty more, salted for future supply. The lesser oracle of the New York World takes an occasional lunch off the same table. The lofty conspirators against our Government have not much else to eat. Rue, sweetened with wormwood is the only sauce, with which it is served. The sympathising race in the more Northern climes, swallow their words with as little show of wry faces as possible. Some of them, in fact, get through the process, since coercion has been successful, and the rebellion has been put down by military force, with remarkable adroitness, or quietly slip the offensive words upon somebody else's plate. The Chicago Peace Democrats mostly won't hear the bell ring for dinner, for about a year yet.

The Internal Revenue Department is being sifted by the new commissioner, Mr. Orton, and while no faithful officer will be disturbed, those who are either incompetent or negligent are bound to go overboard.

Light-Draught Monitors—Why they Failed.

The Committee on the Conduct of the War, were directed by the Senate in June, 1864, to prosecute an inquiry in regard to the iron-clad gunboats contracted for in 1862. The inquiry was to be of the widest scope, to include by whom the contract was made; who planned the models, and who is reponsible therefor; the condition of such as have been launched, and in fact everything necessary to inform Congress of the whole business. The report has just been published, and with the testimony, covers 125 pages. The testimony of twenty witnesses is given, among them Rear Admirals GREGORY and STRINGHAM, Chief Engineer STIMERS, W. L. HANSCOM, (builder of the Kearsarge, Monadnoc, &c.,) JOHN ERICSSON, DONALD MCKAY and A. ADAMS (builder of the Chimo.)

When the necessity for some light-draught vessels became urgent in 1862, the Navy Department applied to Mr. ERICSSON, the inventor of the original monitor, for a plan of a light-draught, one turret monitor, of from six to six and a half feet draught. On the 9th of October, ERICSSON submitted a plan, defining the general principle, and the mode of building the vessel, engines, boilers and propellors. Mr. ERICSSON not having time to do it himself, the work of making all the calculations and detailed working plans was confided to Mr. ADAM C. STIMERS, Chief Engineer United States Navy, who had been with ERICSSON in the building of the first monitor, and participated in the contest with the Merrimac, and who since that time had been more or less engaged in superintending the construction of other monitors.

When the the plans were all prepared, contracts for building twenty such vessels as were needed, on a uniform plan, and at an average cost of $400,000, were made during March, April and May, 1863. The first completed was the Chimo, in May, 1864, at Boston, by Mr. A. ADAMS. She was a failure. Work upon the others was immediately suspended, and a commission appointed to determine what to do with them. Upon the recommendation of the Commission, five were changed into torpedo boats, and the other fifteen were changed by building up their sides twenty-two inches.

When completed they were defective in draught and in speed. When equipped they would barely float, the water rushing over their decks, whereas by the plan they were to be fifteen inches out of water. They were to make seven to nine knots an hour, but on trial made only three and a half to four.

The Committee attribute the increased draught partly to the miscalculation of the weight of mateaial and the amount of displacement, and partly by changes in the plans after the contracts were made. The miscalculations are charged to Mr. STIMERS. The defect in speed was caused mainly by the increased draught, and partly, as some of the witnesses thought, by the engines not being such as should have been put into vessels of that kind.

The Committee say that the duties of Engineer STIMERS were very arduous, and that an unfriendly feeling existed toward him on the part of the Chief of the Bureau of Steam Engineering and the Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repairs. He was removed from his place when the failure was first observed, and the changes conducted under other officers. The Committee do not think that the vessels are sufficiently serviceable to justify the time and money expended. The report concludes as follows:

> Your Committee cannot refrain from the expression of the opinion that it was unwise to order the construction of so many vessels upon precisely the same plan, without first testing the questions involved by the construction of one or two, or at least carrying them so far forward toward completion as to enable the Department to understand and remedy the defects which have been shown to exist in those light-draught monitors.

Reasons for Not Liking Jeff. Davis.

We have at last an expression of dislike for JEFF. DAVIS from the Post. We doubt not that people will reasonably suppose the causes to be that DAVIS headed a wicked rebellion against the Union, perpetrated untold cruelty upon the people, starved and tortured to death our brave soldiers by thousands, massacred many thousands more in cold blood after surrender and capture in battle, and the innumerable other crimes attendant upon rebellion. Such, however, are not the causes. The cause, for there is but one, is a different thing altogether. We won't attempt to give it in our own language, for although the Post is incomprehensibly dark sometimes in expressing its opinions, it is sufficiently clear on this point. Hear it:

> "He and his coadjutors—and in the list we include the Federal Administration at the time—engineered and compassed the defeat of the Democratic party in 1860, thereby securing the accession to power of a northern sectional party—the pretext seized upon to justify revolution and civil war."

Great as the crime is, however, the Post, considering all the surroundings, is willing to condone it. It appears that President JOHNSON is not disposed to regard it as an offense recognizable by the Government, but has DAVIS in duress upon a much graver charge, all of which is too much for the Post and it utters a pitiful plea in the arch-traitor's behalf.

Bishop Potter's Successor.

By the death of Bishop ALONZO POTTER, of this Diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church, the bishopric devolves upon the Rev. WILLIAM BACON STEVENS, who has just filled the position of Assistant Bishop for the past four or five years. Bishop STEVENS is, we believe, a native of Boston, but has been a resident of Pennsylvania for many years. When chosen Assistant Bishop he was the Rector of St. Andrew's Church, Philadelphia, and was selected because of his eminent ability. He is worthy to be the successor of the good and gifted man who adorned the position for the last twenty years.

ALMOST CRIMINAL FOLLY.—In some of the Congressional Districts of Tennessee the Unionists are so much divided on candidates that the opposition are likely to succeed. Thus far every effort to produce harmony has failed. Such folly is little less than criminal, as it deliberately throws into the hands of the secessionists representative offices they could not otherwise elect.

General Intelligence.

The increase in the population of Detroit last year was six thousand.

The proceedings of the Detroit Commercial Convention will make a volume of two hundred and fifty pages.

The proprietors of gift book enterprises in Chicago have been found guilty of keeping lotteries. The cases will be carried to the Supreme Court.

It is proposed to establish a Coal and Iron Exchange in Baltimore. It will represent the two largest interests in the State.

William Shepherd, a private in the 12th Illinois regiment, was murdered and robbed Tuesday night at Springfield. No clue to the murderer has been discovored.

The prospect for the California vintage of 1865 is magnificent. The State will turn out more wine than ever before by twenty-five per cent., and at least 200 per cent more brandy.

A gentleman in New York has offered to give $500 in prizes, to those soldiers who have either lost their right arm or have had it disabled, who will show the best specimen of left-hand penmanship.

The procuring of pardons has become a regular business in the South, where agents regularly advertise their business. Applicants are to "go in" on their papers, whether of the $20,000 or the other class.

News from New Mexico says many refugees from Texas are arriving in the territory. Melting mountain snows have caused the overflow of the Rio Grande, and villages and ranches about Albuquerque have been swept away, and many persons drowned.

Commissioner Orton, of the Internal Revenue Bureau, has ordered an appeal to the United States Supreme Court from the decision recently given by Judge Nelson against the legality of taxing the sales made by brokers on their own account, and Mr. Orton has instructed Collector Shook to proceed, in the mean time, with the collection of these taxes.

The discharging of the navy has lessened seamens' wages fifty per cent. Six months ago the advance to Liverpool was $130, now it is only $25. Then seamen received $50 per month, now they get only half that sum. The decline is greater than has taken place in any other of the industrial vocations.

An Irish correspondent of the Chicago Tribune having claimed that four-fifths of the Union army, during the late war, were Irishmen, that paper declares that a careful inspection of the army rolls will show that not exceeding 50,000 men of Irish nativity fought in the Union ranks. Of the whole 1,500,000 names on the rolls, eighty per cent. are native born.

In the Northwestern part of South Carolina, where United States troops have not been during the rebellion, the people, it is stated, still prefer Confederate currency to United States greenbacks. They will find plenty of their fellow-citizens in other more fortunate parts of the State willing to accommodate them in their preferences.

The conduct of some Southern merchants in coming promptly forward to pay old debts off, contracted before the rebellion, is frequently mentioned in Northern papers. Several instances of the kind have occurred in this city. At Boston, it is also said, several traders from Virginia are searching for their creditors. One of these, who was indebted to a merchant $1,000, paid the amount in gold with interest. Another paid $3,000, and other sums of greater amounts, all in gold. In every case the dealers contend that the debts were contracted upon a specie basis, and should be settled upon the same. New business relations with the South are becoming quite common, and many old associations are being renewed from day to day. There is a brisk demand for clothing, household furniture and agricultural implements from Virginia and North Carolina. Southern business men say that there are many millions of gold stowed away in the cotton States, which, when order is established, will be brought into circulation.

THE PULPIT.

THE DUTY OF HONORING GOD.

A Lecture Room Talk,

BY

HENRY WARD BEECHER.

One of the most remarkable of the instructions that were given by Moses was that forbidding the offering, in religious service, of anything that had blemish—anything that was lame, or in any way injured; and commanding the presentation of the best things, the first things, the first fruits of everything. He pointed out two elements of honor in worship—priority and perfectness. We all know what both of these elements are in our social relations. You know what it is to watch for the first flower, and to joyfully pluck it, and carry it as a testimony of affection to one that you love. There is a subtle pleasure in it which will scarcely bear analysis and description, but which we are all familiar with. You also know what it is to wish to give nothing, as expressions of friendship, except things that are worthy to be given, because they are worthy to be kept. And so, it may, in one sense, be said that nothing is fit to be given away to a friend, as a token of friendship, but that which it is hard to part from.

We have need of just the same instruction yet; and, if we turn our minds to the whole character of our intercourse with God, we shall see that, while there is much in it that is, according to the measure of human infirmity, worthily bestowed, there mixes with it, and perhaps unconsciously, a vast amount of selfishness, some vulgarity, and more or less of what is scarcely to be redeemed from insult.

Take, for instance, the presentation to God of our best things. That would require, in the first place, our best time, and would exclude all that kind of religious observance which consists in shuffling off duty into unprofitable hours. We have too much conscience to be rid of all religious observance; and yet, we feel that we cannot afford to give our best time to it. So we apply ourselves to our labor where we can do it with the greatest profit, and give God as little service as is consistent with quiet of conscience, and put that little into the hour when it will be most convenient to us—when it will least interfere with our business of pleasure. We make our church meetings to a great extent the alternative of our convenience, selecting for them times which we are least likely to have occasion to employ in our secular pursuits.

Now, the true spirit of love always honors. There is no love of the soul, as distinguished from animal love, that has not the honoring element in it which takes cognizance of worthiness of estimableness in the object. Neither can there be. And there can be no such thing as worshipping God really and truly where there is not a desire to present to Him the best things—the best times and the best service. Nothing ought to be regarded as too good to give to God.

Then, we are bound to go to God by the best side of our minds. We cannot but go by fear sometimes; but we are bound to approach God far more than we are bound to approach our friends and the members of our household, by the highest conditions of our highest moral sentiments. If you were to be brought into the presence of a venerable man, learned, and world-renowned for his beneficence, you never would think of approaching him with frivolous topics; you never would think of appearing before him in a state of levity; in other words, you would never think of bringing into play, in your intercourse with him, any but the very highest faculties of your mind. And yet, although in words we should acknowledge the obligation that we were under to devote to God the choicest gifts of our nature, we are often accustomed to put off upon him the fruit of our lowest faculties. We do not give him the best things that our being evolves.

For example, we do not treat God as if we believed he spoke the truth. Now nothing is more offensive to a man than the quiet implication that you do not think he speaks the truth. Even bad men have honor on that point. You may, without saying a word, merely by a significant smile, leave the implication that you do not believe what a person is saying. Or, you may, without any such intimation, go on proposing to a man, with a distinct knowledge of his affirmation, a course which subtly and secretly implies that what he affirms is not true. This is considered to be exquisitely insulting, to one that perceives it.

Now, take such a case as this: God says, when we have done wrong, that, if we turn from that wrong, with repentance, he will never make mention of it again—that he will remember it no more for ever. And then, take what persons suppose to be an honorable conscientiousness. They have done wrong, and they are ashamed of it, and they forsake it; but they go to God, confessing it over, and over, and over again. The wound is one that seldom is healed, until after months and months, that often is not healed for years, and that sometimes continues through a lifetime, bringing a person's whole character into a morbid state. When we have done wrong, and have repented of it, and forsaken it, though we have God's word that it is forgiven, and wiped out, and forgotten, we go on praying just as if it were not true, taking it for granted, constantly, that the wrong is not forgiven, wiped out, or forgotten. And, if the refusing to take a man's word is so offensive to us, how much more offensive to God must be the refusing to take his word!

For instance, the other day, I sent, through the mail, a check to a man in part payment of a note which he held against me. He writes me, "Your check is received, and the same is credited upon your note." I did not see him credit it on the note, and I have not seen the note since; but I have no doubt that he has done it. My evidence is my trust in his word—that is all; but I am as sure that the money has reached him, and that he has given me credit for it, as though I had put it into his hand, instead of sending it to him through the mail.

God makes promises which are to be fulfilled on certain conditions; and when these conditions are complied with, the promises are fulfilled in the nature of things. But men, when they have gone on and performed all that was required of them, instead of resting assured that God has done his part, stand and wait for evidence that he has done it. They want it borne in upon them that their sins are pardoned. They want the manifestation, as they say, of God's forgiveness of them. God has declared that if a man will repent of his transgressions, and forsake them, he will cancel them; and yet men have not confidence enough in his faithfulness to feel satisfied, when they have acted according to the terms of the offer, that he will do the same. If you send a check to a man, and he says, "I have cancelled your debt," you take his word for the deed. And here it is a man; and men have been known to cheat; but God never was. Did he ever say and not fulfil? Did he ever promise and forget? Is he one that does less—is he not one that does unspeakably more—than the best man?

There comes in, then, the moment we have complied with the conditions on which our sins are to be pardoned, the obligation of an honorable treatment of God. The moment we have done our part, we are bound to say, "I know my sins are pardoned, because God has promised that, if I would do so and so, he would do so and so," and to put away fear. There may be cases where persons are not certain that they have complied with the conditions of God's promise; but when one has satisfactory evidence that he has complied with those conditions, then doubting God is a treatment of him which is most dishonorable.

There is another way in which you can treat God honorably. He has been pleased to say that he will accept that as done toward him, that which is done toward his poor, and ignorant and unfortunate disciples. We are apt, in attempting to discharge our duties toward the poor, and ignorant, and the unfortunate, to do it as though we were their superiors, as though it was a condescension on our part. We seldom go to our work, seeing, not the poorness of the disposition and character of the person to whom we are administering, but Christ, and thinking all the time, "Christ has been pleased to say that whatever I will do to this person he will consider as done to him; so I will pour out upon this person those affections and those feelings which I desire to offer up to Christ."

While walking in my garden, I receive a visit from a rough-looking, tattered person, who says, "May I have some flowers?" I say, "certainly, certainly." But as I think he has a coarse eye, and as he does not seem to have much election about flowers, I pick out those that I can spare the easiest, and that I think will perhaps make the most impression upon him, and give him a handful and let him go. But there live in the neighborhood a family of excellent persons whom I much love and esteem, and I find that this person is one of their dependents. For, they say to me, "We send our poor man to you for flowers, and any that you give him come to us." And the next day when he comes along in his rags, and asks for flowers, I say to myself, "Though he takes them, their boquet-holder receives them." And now I look for the best buds and the choicest varieties. I pick those flowers that I think will reach their worth. And nothing is too good to send, though it goes by the hand of a beggar.

When I see a man that is in poverty and trouble, and I say, "Your misfortunes are partly owing to your shiftlessness, and partly to your bad habits; but you are a human being," and just to get rid of him, I give him a rough donation, and let him go, it is as if I gave flowers to a beggar thinking that he was going to keep them. But Christ says, "Inasmuch as you do it to one of the least of these my brethren you do it to me." And now I have a new motive of action. I am assured that Christ is willing to accept what I bestow upon this poor creature as bestowed upon him. And I say, I will treat the man as I would treat my Christ.

Oh, how it animates you; how it ennobles you, how it redeems charity from sordidness and imperfection, when you do good to a man, feeling that there is a Christ behind him, and that everything which you do for him, goes through him, as a medium, and rests in the heart and bosom of the Saviour! It is a great thing to do a kindness in a reverent, loving and worshipful spirit.

Then, Christ is pleased to say what things we endure and bear for him. It is very hard, for instance, for you to be blamed for a thing you did not do; and, when you are so blamed, you instantly feel, "I will tell you who did it?" But you are a great deal better able to bear the blame than the person is, and upon reflection you say, "Well I will be generous; I will let it go so; the Lord knows that I am innocent of this, and he will not condemn me for it." That is a great act, according to the ordinary ideas of human life; but when, for the sake of Christ, you bear a slander, you bear a wrong, you bear a contemptuous treatment, you bear all sorts of annoyances, because he says, "Every noble thing that you do to men I accept as being done to me," that is a still greater act.

There is another point, only, of which I would speak—namely, the dishonorable way in which those men treat God, who are living without God and without hope. We all feel as though among rogues there was a great deal of difference between one and another. For instance, a man comes to my door and says, "I am sick, and hungry, and shelterless; give me food and shelter for the night;" and I take him in and make him as comfortable as I can; and, in the night he gets up and robs me, and is off. I think a thief would say such an act as that was mean. Even a thief, if he was going to get into my house and rob me, would rather do it in some other way than by taking advantage of a kindness that I was doing him. If you wanted to attack a man you would rather do it as his enemy, than, pretending to be his friend, take advantage of his confidence in your friendship to attack him.

Now, I think men are perpetually taking advantage of God's goodness to ill-treat Him. He gives them life, and health, and reason, and various blessings, and they calculate and say, "God is so good that He gives me all that I need; and, although I owe Him obedience, yet, if I do neglect to obey Him for a time, He will be gracious still, and will give me a chance to become a good Christian." They make a double-barreled business of it, taking the good of this world as long as they can, and then seeking religion. They make capital out of God's goodness to them. Was ever anything more quintessentially mean? If there is aught that gives a more heightened color to every other sin, and makes it more intensely poison, it is that!

Personal.

Emerson Etheridge is to be tried at Nashville by court martial for uttering seditious language. He has been released on his parole not to repeat his offensive sentiments.

Capt. John S. Nicholas, of the United States Navy, died at Bonud Brook, N. J., on the 18th of the current month, in his 65th year. Captain Nicholas was tenth on the retired list of his grade at the time of his decease.

C. Ruffin, Jr., the son of the old rebel who did himself the honor and the country the justice to shoot himself a few days ago, is an applicant for pardon from the President. Forrest, of Fort Pillow memory, wants the same thing, and so do a host of others.

The speech of Mr. Perry, the new Governor of South Carolina, was delivered before his appointment was made, and published after. It is said his views have undergone a change since. If they have not, or even if they have, he appears to be an unfit man for the position.

Gen. Dix is relieved of his command at his own urgent and repeated request, being anxious to devote himself to the Pacific Railroad Company, of which he is President, and to give his attention as early as possible to the affairs of his private fortune, which had been neglected during the severe labors of his military life.

A Dubuque dispatch to the Chicago Republican says: Major General Herron, of this State, has taken up his residence at Pittsburgh, and is spoken of in connection with the next Governorship of Pennsylvania. It is rather a big thing for Iowa to furnish Governors for the great Middle States.

A letter from one of Speaker Colfax's party says: "We are perfectly sure the Pacific railway, so far as engineering difficulties and expensive grading are concerned, can reach Great Salt Lake City with not a tenth part of the expense it cost the Erie, or the Central Pennsylvania to cross the mountains lying in their way."

General Ewell, a prisoner of war, having taken the oath of allegiance, and given bonds for its maintenance, has been permitted by the President to return to his home in Virginia, on parole, on condition that he will report once a week by letter to the Secretary of War. President Lincoln having directed, under date of March 23, that Mrs. Ewell have the benefit of the Amnesty Proclamation, and she having taken the oath, the President has permitted her to return to her former residence in Nashville, and take the property, as decreed by the United States Court for Middle Tennessee.

It is a kind of property that constantly returns good interest, and its money value is so well known that a pocket full of silver dollars wouldn't be as useful.

FINANCIAL.

United States
7-30 LOAN!
THIRD SERIES.
$230,000,000.
By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, the undersigned, the General Subscription Agent for the sale of United States Securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury notes, bearing seven and three tenths per cent. interest per annum, known as the 7-30 LOAN.
These notes are issued under date of July 15, 1865, and are payable three years from that date in currency, or are convertible at the option of the holder into
U. S. 5-20 Six Per Cent.
GOLD BEARING BONDS.
These bonds are now worth a handsome premium and are exempt, as are all the Government Bonds from State, County and Municipal taxation, which adds from one to three per cent. per annum to their value, according to the rate levied upon other property. The interest is payable semi-annually by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker.
The interest at 7.30 per cent amounts to
One cent per day on a $50 note.
Two cents per day on a $100 note.
Ten cents per day on a $500 note.
Twenty cents per day on a $1,000 note.
One dollar per day on a $5,000 note.
Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.
The Notes of this Third Series are precisely similar in form and privileges to the Seven-Thirties already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying interest in gold coin at 6 per cent., instead of 7 3-10ths in currency. Subscribers will deduct the interest in currency up to July 15, at the time when they subscribe.
The delivery of the notes of this Third Series of the Seven-Thirties will commence on the first of June, and will be made promptly and continuously after that date.
The slight change made in the conditions of this THIRD SERIES affects only the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.
The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices that purchases made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three-tenths per cent., currency. This is
THE ONLY LOAN IN MARKET,
Now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the great Popular Loan of the People.
Less than $230,000,000 of the Loan authorized by Congress are now on the market. This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within sixty days, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other loans.
In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and private bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.

MERCHANTS' AND MANUFACTURERS' NATIONAL BANK.
PITTSBURGH, June 21st, 1865.
Having been instructed by the Comptroller of the United States Currency that it will be impossible for him to complete the arrangement for the increase of capital of this Bank, as first authorized, beyond one-half the amount contemplated ($100,000), owing to the apportionment to Pennsylvania being already more than absorbed, Stockholders are hereby notified that Twenty Dollars, on one-half of the shares of new stock subscribed will, by direction of said Comptroller, be refunded, on application at the Bank, thus reducing new stock to one-half the shares already subscribed for. No further installments on the balance of the new stock will be required. The capital of the Bank, therefore, will be reduced from the contemplated sum of One Million Dollars to Eight Hundred Thousand.
By order of the Board.

WAITING FOR ME.

There is a form of girlish mould,
Under the spread of the branches old,
At the well known beachen tree,
With the sunset lighting her tresses of gold,
And the breezes waving them, fold upon fold,
Waiting for me.

There is the sweet voice, with cadence deep,
Of one that sings our babe asleep,
And often turns to see
How the stars through the lattice begin to peep,
And watches the lazy dial creep,
Waiting for me.

Long since those locks are laid in the clay,
Long since that voice has passed away,
On earth no more to be;
But still in the spirit world afar
She is still the dearest of those that are
Waiting for me.

BRIEF MISCELLANY.

TAMING FISH.

A little girl residing near a pond in Massasetts has succeeded in taming some of the fish by throwing crumbs of bread, crackers, &c., into the water. The species called perch seem to be the most tractable and docile. One of them often takes the end of her finger in his mouth, while another will glide gently into her hand and turn on one side, and so remain, apparently reposing, till raised quite to the surface. The little girl walks out on a plank sustained a few inches above the water, and before she reaches the end of the plank, the fish may be seen darting rapidly toward their feeding ground. The larger ones, especially, are disposed to drive off the smaller ones, but she keeps order among them by means of a stick with a sewing-needle attached to the end of it, and when one picks a quarrel he gets a stab, and is off at once.

A SOIREE BY LIONS.

In the adult state there exists four times as many lionesses as lions, although in youth the balance of the sexes is pretty nearly equal. The disturbance of the equilibrium may be attributed to the furious battles between the males; at the close of which, one of the rivals is almost always left for dead, sometimes both. In fact the most efficient exterminators of lions are the lionesses. These ladies are fond of holding soirees, at which every gentleman present is expected to fight for his love and his life; the survivor to enjoy the honors of the evening in undisturbed tranquility. The invitation given is a passionate roar, which attracts all the lions in the neighborhood. Their assemblies are sometimes even held by day. While following some footprints, at about eleven in the morning, M. Chaissaing reached an eminence covered with thick brushwood. In this retreat he suddenly caught sight of two magnificent lionesses and three lions, one of whom was monstrous.

This last followed one of the lionesses step by step, keeping his weaker rivals at a respectful distance; these manifested their impatient rage by short, snappish, subdued cries. The happy sultan swept round his favorite in rapid circlings seeming proudly to enjoy his conquest. M. Chaissaing was considering whether he might not venture to disturb the party, and was trying to get near the amorous couple, when, to his astonishment, he perceived a little further off four other lions, from two or three years of age, who, doubling their own strength, kept their distance from the lioness, not daring to venture nearer. He had the good luck to gaze on this strange tableau vivant for several minutes. Deeming it folly to quarrel with the assembled nine, he quietly and prudently retired from the spot.—Dickens' All the Year Round.

GOOD DEEDS.

Thousands of men live, breathe, move—pass off the stage of life—are heard of no more. Why? They do not a particle of good in the world, none was blessed by them as the instrument of their redemption. Not a word they spoke could be recalled, and so they perished; their light went down in darkness, and they were not remembered more than the insects of yesterday. Will you thus live and die, O, man immortal? Live for something. Do good, and leave behind you a monument of virtue that the storms of time can never destroy. Write your names in kindness, and love, and mercy, on the hearts of thousands you may come in contact with year by year. You will never be forgotten. No! your name, your deeds, will be as legible on the hearts you leave behind as the stars on the brow of the evening. Good deeds will shine as the stars of heaven.

OUR MISTAKES ABOUT EACH OTHER.

Not one man in ten thousand sees those with whom he associates as they really are. If the prayer of Burns were granted, and we could all see ourselves as others see us, our self estimates would in all probability be much more erroneous than they now are. The truth is that we regard each other through a variety of lenses, no one of which is correct. Passion and prejudice, love and hate, benevolence and envy, spectacle our eyes, and utterly prevent us from observing accurately. Many whom we deem the porcelain of human clay are mere dirt, and a still greater number of those we put down in our "black books" are no further off from Heaven, and perchance a little nearer than the censors who condemn them.

FEMININE TOPICS.—A law against obtaining husbands under false pretences, passed by the English Parliament in 1770, enacts: "That woman of whatever age, rank, profession, or degree who shall, after this act, impose upon, seduce and betray into matrimony any of his majesty's subjects by virtue of scents, paints, cosmetic washes, artificial teeth, false hair, iron stays, bolstered hips, or high-heeled shoes, shall incur the penalty of the law now in force against witchcraft and like misdemeanors; and the marriage under such circumstances, upon conviction of the offending parties, shall be null and void."

HOW TO SERVE A DOG.

A correspondent says this is the way: "When attacked by a blood-hound, or any other dog, raise your left arm and let him seize it; then instantly grasp his wind pipe with your right hand and squeeze it with all your might; that will disable him in two seconds. He opens his mouth to gasp, loses all power, and falls helpless. If you wish to kill him, keep your hold for a minute or two—he is done. You are ready for another. One at a time is all you need. I speak from experience with big dogs."

THE WAY WOODEN TOOTHPICKS ARE MADE.

Perhaps in all the arts there is no other machine that multiplies the product of labor to a greater extent than the simple little machine recently invented by J. B. Brown, of Brooklyn, Long Island, for making wooden toothpicks and splints for lighting lamps, for matches, for baskets, and for some forty other purposes. A block of wood is placed in the machine and the splints pour out in a constant stream, or cataract, like the pouring of corn from a half-bushel. This machine is as simple as it is effectual, it being nothing more than an ordinary lathe for turning wood, with a little addition. The trunk of a whitewood tree is sawed into blocks of a length equal to the length of the toothpicks or splints, and is centered in the lathe. The turning tool is a long, stiff chisel, extending the whole length of the block or more, set vertically with its edge on a level with the centres, and fitted to slide back and forth horizontally, and to be fed forward by a worm, which is turned by the machine.

Upon the opposite side of the block is a roller of the same length as the block, with a series of blades secured to its surface, the spaces between the blades being equal to the width of the splints. For lamplighters the blades are set parallel to each other, but for toothpicks they are at a small angle so as to cut the picks of the proper taper, the narrow ends alternating with the broad, and thus using up all the wood.

The block is first turned off smooth by the straight blade, and then the cutter with the radial blades is brought forward against the opposite side, and thrown into gear, when it feeds forward as the wood is cut away. The radial blades cut shallow gashes into the block to a depth just equal to the thickness of the splints, and then as the block revolves the splints are shaved off by the straight chisel. One machine will make 20,000 splints a minute.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

FOR MORE THAN TWENTY YEARS Matthews' VENETIAN HAIR DYE has stood the test of trial, and is constantly increasing in public favor.

The VENETIAN HAIR DYE is the best and cheapest made. Its price is only 75 cents, and each bottle contains double the quantity of dye in those usually sold for $1.

THIS HAIR DYE is manufactured by a peculiar process, which renders it infinitely superior to any dye in the market. Being complete in one bottle, no preparation is required, which greatly simplifies the application.

IN USING THIS DYE, you avoid that RUSTY, DEAD appearance by which dyed hair and whiskers are so readily recognized, when an inferior article has been used, as it produces a perfectly natural color of any shade that is desired, from a rich brown to a jetty, lustrous black, that will not smut, crock or stain the clothing. Invest 75 cents, and you will be convinced. Sold by all Druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers.

DECKER'S PIANOS.

MESSRS. DECKER BROTHERS—GENTLEMEN—In your pianos (square) I find a strength and sonorousness of tone, together with a richness, brilliancy and delicacy, that until now have been characteristic features only of the very best grands. I never found an instrument so perfectly well adapted for the just rendering of the works of the great writers for the piano forte, as is the one now in my possession, manufactured by Decker Brothers.

Yours, &c.,

ARTIFICIAL LIMBS.

The best Patent Artificial Leg in the United States and the only one in Pittsburgh, is made by REICHENBACH,
No. 58 Fourth street, near Market street.

No other person in this city has a patent for Artificial Limbs. His Patent Leg resembles the natural limb in all its movements, as well as in appearance, and cannot be detected by an experienced eye. It met the approbation of the Army Board in Washington, January 12th, 1864, at which time a patent was granted the inventor. Parties in this city and elsewhere have attempted to imitate the patent, but have only produced worthless limbs.

Crutches can be dispensed with the first time the leg is worn. On horseback, it has the power and movements as when walking.

REICHENBACH also manufactures an ARTIFICIAL HAND, which is natural in appearance and movements, and when worn but a short time by those requiring them, are indispensable. je14-1y

CITY MATTERS.

CHRIST CHURCH.—Allegheny city, on Sunday, (to-morrow,) there will be the usual services in this Church, at 10½ o'clock.

LUDWICK FOR SALE.—As will be seen by advertisement elsewhere, Gen. Will A. Stokes offers for sale his beautiful residence at Ludwick, near Greensburgh.

UNDINE CLUB.—A meeting of the Undine Boat Club will be held this (Saturday) evening, at No. 37, Fifth street, at half-past seven o'clock. By order of the President.

MINER'S WAGES.—The coal operators in Mahoning county, Ohio, have made a further reduction of twenty-five cents per ton in the price paid for mining coal. The miners at a few of the banks have struck in consequence.

SELLING LIQUOR WITHOUT LICENSE.—Patrick McFarland, a veteran soldier, who keeps a tavern on Grant street, was arrested yesterday for selling liquor without license. He entered bail for his appearance at Court.

BEING PAVED.—Workmen are now engaged in paving the Allegheny Wharf at the steamboat landing, opposite the mouth of Irwin street. It is in contemplation to pave this wharf from Hand to St. Clair street, and the work will probably be commenced at an early day.

PASTURAGE WANTED.—Lieut. Col. O. Cross, Quartermaster in this city, advertises that proposals will be received at his office until 12 M., on the 28th inst., for pasturing from 1,000 to 1,500 mules for an unlimited period. The bids should state the price per head that will be charged, the condition of the grazing and water, the number that can be provided for, and the distance from the city.

IMPORTANT TO BUSINESS MEN.—We direct the attention of our business men to the card of Messrs. Gardner, Burt & Co., storage and produce commission merchants, of Cleveland, Ohio. The firm is composed of capable, honest, and energetic business men, and have such facilities for storage and shipment as will commend them to the business public generally.

FIRE.—Last evening, about eight o'clock, a fire was discovered in the fourth story of Messrs. F. Sellers & Co.'s extensive pork packing establishment, corner of Penn and Wayne streets. The steamers were promptly on the ground, and through the exertions of the firemen, the flames were confined to the room where the fire originated. A quantity of bacon was damaged, but the building sustained no material damage.

LARCENY OF CLOTHING.—A man named John Smith was arrested yesterday afternoon by the Mayor's police, on a charge of stealing a coat and a pair of pants from E. W. Wise a resident of Penn street. Smith had been drinking very heavily, and at the time of his arrest was laboring under a slight attack of delerium tremens. He was committed to jail to answer the charge at Court.

OUTRAGE AND ROBBERY IN SALEM, OHIO.—Our correspondent "T" sends us the following:—As Mr. Robert Wolf, formerly a night telegraph operator of this place was coming up from the station at 10½ o'clock, Wednesday evening, a villain walking alongside of him fell upon him with a club or staff, knocked him senseless, and robbed him of his pocket book and money. The ruffian made good his escape before any one could come to the young man's assistance. No clue to the scoundrel has yet been found.

COULD NOT AGREE.—The Conferees from Butler, Armstrong and Lawrence counties, who convened in the Monongahela House, on Thursday, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for State Senator, re-assembled yesterday morning, but as each delegation continued to vote for its own representative, no choice was effected. The ballotting was continued until noon, when the conference adjourned, to meet on Thursday, August 3, at the same place. An effort will be made in the meantime to induce one of the candidates to withdraw his name.

MOVEMENT OF TROOPS.—The 65th Illinois regiment, numbering one thousand men, under command of Colonel W. S. Stewart, arrived in this city yesterday morning, and was hospitably entertained by the Subsistence Committee at the City Hall. Addresses were delivered by Rev. W. A. Davidson, of this city, Rev. J. B. Stewart, of Cincinnati, and Colonel Barclay, of Armstrong county. Colonel Stewart then returned the thanks of the regiment to the citizens of Pittsburgh for the warm reception accorded them, and closed by proposing three cheers for the Subsistence Committee, after which the soldiers took up their line of march for the depot.

PROBABLE MURDER.—On Monday last, the body of a woman named Mrs. Mary Kilgrove, was found in the woods near Crooked Creek, below Rosston, in Armstrong county. It is said that she had been last seen on the evening of the 4th inst., near the railroad bridge at that place. A chain of circumstances lead to the impression that she was murdered. The body was in such a state of decomposition, having been exposed for thirteen days, that no proper examination could be had, hence the case remains shrouded in mystery. A short distance from where the body was found her parasol, shawl, collar, earrings, and bonnet were found. Her husband appeared at the inquest and claimed the body for interment.

Horse Thief Arrested.

Some weeks ago, a gentleman residing on Troy Hill had a valuable horse stolen from his premises. A man named Anger, who disappeared about the same time, was suspected of being the thief, and an effort was made to arrest him, but he secceeded in evading the officers. Yesterday morning, however, he made his appearance at a livery stable on Liberty street, Allegheny, for the purpose of hiring a horse and buggy. As he was unknown to the proprietor of the stable, he was requested to give references, when he mentioned his name. A person standing near recognizing him, hurried to Alderman Robinson's office, on Ohio street, and informed the Alderman of his discovery. As the constable connected with the office was absent, Mr. Robinson concluded to make the arrest himself, which he did. At the hearing of the case the evidence was very strong against Anger, and he was committed to jail for trial. It is supposed that he intended to hire the horse and buggy, and then leave for parts unknown.

Outrages on Colored People.

To the Editor of the Commercial:

Will you allow me to call attention through your columns to the outrages that are daily being perpetrated in our midst upon unoffending colored people. This morning as a young colored man was quietly driving along Pennsylvania Avenue, he was assailed by some young outlaws, with opprobrious epithets and a shower of stones. On remonstrating with them, one of the boys, some sixteen or seventeen years old, threw a large stone with force enough to have broken his skull, but it fortunately caught on his arm, laming it completely. Need I say that such attacks are of every day occurrence, and brings forcibly to mind the words in Judge Taney's infamous decision "that a black man had no rights that white men are obliged to respect."

I am under the impression that a dog or horse has some rights we are obliged to respect, and in thus cruelly assailing these inoffensive people, every principle of decency humanity and christianity is outraged.

It is time such outrages were put a stop to, and the perpetrators of them taught a wholesome lesson by due administration of the law.

Pittsburgh, July 21. JUSTICE.

REPORT OF SALES.

50 shares Columbia in lots 36 75

FINANCE AND TRADE.

PITTSBURGH, July 21—P. M.

Transactions to-day in stocks were few, and quotations may be said to be about the same as usual. It is noticeable that the biddings for stocks are much more numerous than formerly, showing a disposition to buy, which was not the case until recently. We hear of sales of round lots of Columbia at $35, and small lots were in demand at higher figures; many persons who were holding off in the expectation that the recent panic would carry the stock down to $20, are now buying in order to average their purchases at $50 00 and over. The United States stock is quoted from New York at $30 10, a slight advance over yesterday. If the expectations are realized in regard to some new wells about being tested, a considerable advance may be looked for in a few days; but if the wells do not turn out well, a decline may follow, as the present price is in part owing to the expectations of a heavy flow of oil. Our local companies, such as Paxton, Central Basin, Pithole, Cherry Run and Pittsburgh and others in the vicinity of the United States will sympathize with that stock, and rise or fall with it, until the developments they are making themselves are fully tested.

—Enquiries for the bonds of the Connellsville railroad are made to-day without, however, so far as we can learn, bringing any out. The recent decision of Judge Grier in favor of this company having, we suppose, stimulated the demand for the securities of this road. If a final decision were now had on this question between the Pennsylvania railroad company and the Connellsville in favor of the latter, the stock and bonds would advance, as there would then exist a certainty of the completion of the road, but this cannot be expected immediately as it is understood that under proceedings in a quo warranto to be issued there will be further delay, and legislation next winter in a more effective shape to accomplish the defeat of this rival route to the sea board.

—It has has been ascertained that the legal limit of $300,000,000 of National Bank circulation is nearly reached, and therefore the creation of a comparatively few additional institutions under that system will be authorized. The entire number will probably reach 1,600.

—The total number of National Banks is 1,440. The number established last week was 39, with a capital of $6,500,000. Nearly $1,500,000 of nation currency was issued last week.

—The Boston banks have agreed to lend the U. S. Treasury ten millions of dollars at five per cent. for certificates payable in thirty days in legal tenders.

—Now that the National Bank system has not only been fully established, but bids fair so absorb the whole of the State system which opposed it, the discovery has been made that the pioneer banks provided for an increase of their capitals, which promise to be of much advantage. The First National Bank of New York, in its original Articles of Association, reserved the right to increase its capital to $50,000,000, thus laying the foundation for a bank such as this city will at no very distant day require. There is no other secured right for a large bank under the law.

NATIONAL EXPENDITURE FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1864.—We are enabled to give the exact amounts expended under their respective heads:

PITTSBURGH GENERAL MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY COMMERCIAL, PITTSBURGH, Saturday, July 22, 1865.

BUSINESS—The market yesterday presented but few changes worthy of notice. The demand for most articles is improving. Prices are generally looking up. The receipts of produce have fallen off very materaily. This fact has established more confidence in holders, who are inclined to ask an advance. The weather yesterday was very warm. The Monongahela, after reaching a fair stage, is again receding, with sufficient water for present purposes. There were no arrivals, except the J. S. Hall from the Parkersburg oil regions; she will return to that port this day at noon. The Emma Graham, as we learn by telegraph, left Zanesville for this port: she will return to the Muskingum at 4 P. M. on Tuesday. The Ida Rees did not take her departure as announced; she will leave this day positively for Cincinnati and intermediate ports. The first-class packet Bertha did not get her bill in time to leave last evening; to-day will witness her departure for Cincinnati and Louisville. Among the first boats due are the Hard Times and Centralia. The Minerva is also on her way up. Below will be found the sales that came under our notice

FLOUR.—The market has ruled firm with a good demand for home purposes. The supply on the market at present is not large, which fact increases the confidence of holders, who are inclined to advance their figures, hence the operations were confined to lots to supply the immediate wants of the trade. Among the sales were the following: Extra Fair, 200 bbls. winter wheat, $7 85@8 00; 100 bbls. Fancy, $8 25; 50 bbls. do. same figures. Inferior or low grades sold at $6 00@6 25 as per quality. Weekly Review of the Pig Iron and Bloom Market.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL, Saturday, July 22, 1865.

The market continues to improve as regards the demand in prices. The sales were more liberal than for some weeks past; prices in certain descriptions have advanced 100c ⅌ ton. We expect to see more activity in the market during the coming month. If the metal brokers, at least a portion of them, would be a little more communicative we should be able to furnish a larger amount of sales. Below will be found the sales that came under our notice. Other sales were made, but the terms were withheld:

PITTSBURGH OIL TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY COMMERCIAL, PITTSBURGH, Saturday, July 22, 1865.

Business yesterday came pretty much to a stand still. The operations were among the lighiest we have reported for some time past. Buyers of Crude were disposed to hold off to see which way prices were going to move. Besides, the close of the week generally turns out to be the dullest part. The stock of Crude in the market for disposal at this time is not large. Most of the refineries have an ample supply on hand sufficient to meet their wants, hence the market was quiet. Sales could hardly be effected unless at a concession. The receipts yesterday per the Allegheny, reach 1,440 barrels. The sales fell far short of that amount. The current rates were 20@20½, packages returned, or 26@26½ packages included. The principle inquiry was for heavy oils. The trade on the Allegheny see ned to improve. We note sales of 1,000 old oil barrels at $2 00 per barrel. Freights to and from Oil City were plenty at fair prices. The latest news from Oil City reports a quiet market. Buyers and sellers were apart in their views. Below will be found the sales that came under our notice:

CRUDE OIL.—Buyers seemed to be absent; they were not disposed to take held, hence we have but few sales to report. Prices have undergone no change, and large lots could hardly be disposed of at the present prices. Sales—102 bbls at 21c, packages returned; 162 bbls do, 21c, same condition; 105 bbls 26c, packages included; 400 bbls, 26c, barrels included.

REFINED OILS—The market presented no feature worthy of particular notice. The present rates are, Bonded on spot, 45c, and sales were made, delivered on the cars, at about these figures. Bonded for Philadelphia was held at 52½c.

FREE OIL—The market was quiet at 61@65c.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY COMMERCIAL, Friday, July 21, 1865.

The corrections we make in prices since our last issue are somewhat numerous though of minor importance.

We note a decided advance in Oil of Lemon; some of the other essential oils are lower. Lard Oil continues firm. Linseed Oil and Spirits of Turpentine are dearer again, but the advance is probably only temporary.

New York Finance and Trade.

NEW YORK, July 21.

STOCKS.

This morning there was more firmness and animation in the stock market. There was active demand for all the leading shares, with a sharp rise in most of them. There was a slight falling off in railway shares on street call at one o'clock but the market was all wrong again at the Second Board and prices were about up to the highest point of the morning. The New York Central and Northwestern shares were the only weak stocks. At the last board the market for railways was strong, although business was generally rather tight throughout call. Governments are less active, and there is no foreign demand of moment, and disposition to sell appears to predominate. Private holders sold about half a million dollars worth of various classes of bonds, which had a depressing effect upon prices. Miscellaneous shares were more animated and there was a general improvement in prices quite marked in some cases.

GOLD

Is quiet. All efforts of the bulls to make cash gold scarce, are unsuccessful, and it can be borrowed without premium. There is more demand for money.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

New York Gold Market.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Gold is quiet. The bulls are struggling hard to buy up the supply; and thereby compel an advance, but they have been somewhat embarrassed the last day or two by sales made by the Treasury Department for purposes known to itself but only surmised by others, the object probably being to provide currency for the payment of the August interest on the seven-thirty notes. To-day the Treasury is not selling gold. There is very little doing in short sales, the bears being affected of the strength of the bull's clique. The quotations opened to-day at 142½ and closed at 142½.

New York Money and Stock Market.

New York Dry Goods Market.

Goods have again advanced. There is quite a scarcity of goods offering. Woolens as well as cottons have risen in price, though cottons are most buoyant. The demand is unusually large for the season. The mills are producing freely, and by and by the market will be better supplied. There is a deposition to buy goods speculatively as well as to keep up assortments. Prints have advanced full one cent, and are in active demand. There is a scarcity yet of fall patterns, and orders for future delivery are large. Standard sheetings and shirtings are scarce and much wanted. Prices continue rising. Stocks are very light, and goods sell as fast as they arrive. Drills are also scarce, and command higher prices. Stripes and ticks sell well for the season. Heavy denims are quick of sale at an advance. Ginghams are steady. Delaines, like prints, have risen, and sell quite fast. No stock can accumulate. The assortment of new goods attracts buyers, and large sales are making. An active business is doing in balmoral skirts. Desirable styles of fancy cassimeres and heavy goods are very active. The new arrivals sell readily. Satinets, also, move quite fast and realize better prices. Kentucky jeans have risen 2 per cent. Flannels sell briskly. Blankets are very active.

In foreign fabrics there is also a very noticeable increase of activity, and at better prices. Importers are very firm. The imports are on the increase. British goods are very attractive. Black alpacas and plain Coburgs are very attractive, and are selling to arrive. Low Italian cloths are quick of sale. Beavers, and Esquimaux, and other heavy goods, are steady. Black broadcloths and doeskins are in limited supply, while the demand is very active. Silks are scarce and prices rising. The European crop of silk is deficient, and raw silk has risen considerably, which is having an important effect on the supply of goods, and in enhancing cost.—Independent.

Wool in Michigan.

JACKSON.—There has probably been more wool taken here this season than at any other point in the State. The following are the amounts.

	Last week.	Total.
R. S. Ismon	65,000	217,000
Penny & King	15,000	75,000
A. Bennett		100,000
Vaughn & Cox		40,000
Merriman & Bros		35,000
V. M. Bostwick		45,000
Aggregate	100,000	512,000

Paid during the past week, 53@58c; the best clips at 60c.

FRANCISCOVILLE.—D. Godfrey has taken in all 26,215 lbs, at an average of 54c; range, 53@55c. It is believed half of the wool which would be marketed here has been already bought.

ADRIAN.—So far as we have been able to learn, the amount of wool marketed here thus far is about 120,000 lbs. During the entire season it has come in slowly, and mostly in small lots—our farmers as a class being wealthy, and it not being necessary that they should dispose of it immediately, they are holding on, anticipating a possible advance. As high as 62½c has been paid for some choice lots, but the average will not go above 54c.

Cincinati Provision Market.

JULY 20—The true expression of the spirit of the Provision market was difficult to arrive at to-day. Mess Pork continues to be held firmly at $29 by those who have city packed on the market, and a sale of 100 barrels at that figure. There was also recorded a sale of 200 barrels country packed at $28 50. Bulk Sides, to average 37 lbs, were sold to the extent of 150,000 lbs, at 16½c, but the general asking figure is 17c. Bulk Shoulders are held at 16c, loose, and a sale of a lot at an interior point was, we learn, made last evening, at 16c¼, packed. These figures, however, seem not to be supported here to-day by buyers. Bacon Shoulders are firmly held at 17c, and Sides at 17½@18c, though a sale of clear Rib was made at 18c. Clear Sides are quoted at 20c. Plain Hams command 23@25c, and sugar cured 29@30c. Lard is quiet at 21½c, as a trading figure, though there could not be much bought at that. Prime mess Pork was sold at $21 75.

New York Petroleum Market.

July 21.—Petroleum—There has been a little more doing in crude since this day week, but at very irregular and unsettled prices, which show a decline of fully 1@1½c ⅌ gallon, closing, however, with rather more firmness at 33@33½c; refined has also been in improved demand; large purchases were made for export; prices were very irregular, and as compared with last week show a slight falling off, closing, however, with more firmness at 53@55c; free oil has not been very active, but there is no special change in prices, closing at 72@74c ⅌ gallon.

New York Hop Market.

July 21.—As yet, we learn of no special development in the growing crop that exert any material influence upon the stock here or requires particular reference. The quietude noticed last week still reigns and the quotatios are the cash prices given in this city. We quote:

Crop of 1864, prime	30
Crop of 1864, poor to good	10@25
Crop of 1863, good to prime	10@15
Crop of 1863, poor to good	8@10

New York Copper Market.

July 21.—Copper.—The small supply of American Ingot on hand has greatly strengthened the views of holders, and has restricted business materially. Prices have advanced, and at the close tend upward; sales of Lake and Baltimore at 29@30c. New Sheathing and Yellow Metal are without change to note; the demand is light. We quote at 45c for the former and 30c for the latter. Bolts and Braziers are selling at 45c.

IMPORTS BY RIVER.

Parkersburg.

PER J. S. HALL.—Fetzer & Armstrong, 110 sks oats; Corrington & Son, 24 bales hay; Noble, Anger & Co., 36 sks wheat; A. & D. H. Chambers, 100 fire brick; owner, 36 pkgs; Brewer Barkesle, 100 empty barrels; J. Dickey, 5 pkgs; Tack Brothers & Co., 700 empty barrels; J. Rhodes, 11 empty barrels; lot sundries, to owners on board.

MODERN MIRACLE.—FROM OLD and young, from rich and poor, from high-born and lowly, comes the universal voice of praise for HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER. It is a perfect and miraculous article; cures baldness, makes Hair grow. A better dressing than any Oil or Pomatum. Softens harsh, dry and wiry hair into beautiful silken tresses. But above all, the great wonder is the rapidity with which it restores GRAY HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. Use it a few times, and, presto, change, the whitest and worst looking Hair resumes its youthful beauty. It does not dye the Hair, but strikes at the root, and fills it with new life and coloring matter. It will not take a long, disagreeable trial to prove the truth of this matter. The first application will do good; you will see the natural color returning every day, and before you know it, the old, gray, discolored appearance of the Hair will be gone, giving place to lustrous, shining and beautiful locks. Ask for Hall's Sicilian Hair Renewer; no other article is at all like it in effect. You will find it cheap to buy, pleasant to try, and sure to do you good. There are many imitations. Be sure you procure the genuine, manufactured only by R. P. Hall & Co., Nashua, N. H.

THE RIVER—Last evening at twilight there were seven feet water in the channel and falling. The weather was warmer. Business on the landing was active.

The fine passenger steamer J. S. Hall, Capt. Woodburn, leaves this day at noon for Parkersburg and intermediate points. This boat has the best of accommodations and is in charge of attentive officers. Our young friend Ghrist will see that passengers are well cared for.

THE light draught packet Ida Rees, Capt. Rees, is announced for Cincinnati this day. This boat has good accomodations, and is in charge of experienced and attentive officers. Mr. Dravo who has charge of the office will see that passengers have the best of attention. Call early and secure a room.

THE splendid passenger steamer "Bertha," Capt. J. Mechan, is announced for Cincinnati and Louisville this day. We are pleased to see our friend Mechan in charge of so fine a packet, and we are confident that he will do the office credit. We take pleasure in saying a good word for the worthy Captain. The first clerk is our attentive friend Vanhook. Passengers who have traveled on the "Bertha" speak in flattering terms of her appointments.

Cincinnati.

Tuesday's Commercial says:

The river has risen two feet and a half during the past twenty-four hours, with 7 feet on the Rising Sun bar, and 6 feet in the canal. The Tennessee is still falling, by last accounts. Latest advices report 24 inches on Harpeth Shoals, in the Cumberland, and rising. There is 16 feet in the Mississippi from St. Louis to Cairo.

Travel and shipments of freight by river is diminishing daily, as is usual at this season of the year. The rival Louisville packets appear to be doing nearly all the business. They arrive and depart crowded with passengers, and handle daily a large quantity of merchandize.

The J. R. Gilmore, for Pittsburgh, will be due from Louisville at noon to-day.

The steamer Centralia left for Pittsburgh last evening with a light load.

BOATS IN PORT.—Arizona, Prima Donna, Alex. Speer, Argyle, Swallow, Kate Putnam, Majestic, Wananita, J. G. Blackford, Camelia, Miami, Phantom, Nightingale, Navigator, Pocahontas, Naugatuck, Potomac, Iron City, Melnotte, Belle, Golden Eagle, Minerva, Kanawha Belle.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says:

JOHNSONVILLE, TENN., July 16, 1865.

The "Ontario" left Johnsonville this P. M., for Saint Louis, with the 2d Missouri Light Artillery on board. Left steamer Huntsville at Johnsonville, with a load of Government freight, and the "Nora" waiting for the same kind of a trip. The Michigan and Porter, Quartermaster Department boats, are here. The Government boats are employed in wrecking the boats that were burned last winter. There is six feet in the river, and on a stand; it has rained for the last 12 hours, and as I write, it continues to rain. All well.

Yours, truly, WILL.

Louisville.

Wednesday's Press says: The river continues to recede at this point despite the rain, with only five feet water by the mark in the canal last evening. During the previous twenty-four hours it had fallen two inches at the head of the Falls and about half a foot at Portland. On the Falls last evening there was three feet of water in the pass down the Indian chute, and the river about at a stand.

The little steamer Fanny Fisk; laden with iron, caught fire at Cairo, and was scuttled and sunk.

The J. R. Gilmore went over the Falls yesterday to take on a lot of pig-iron discharged form the Armenia last month, when the latter boat was taken for the transportation service. The iron is destined for Pittsburgh. The Gilmore also takes a lot of leaf tobacco for the East via the river to Pittsburgh, that route being the cheapest.

Evansville.

July 20.—The Onward and Minneola had fair trips. The Starlight and Financier, being in Government service, passed up light.

The Charmer takes the place of the Armada as the mail boat to Cairo.

The Kate Robinson and Emerald came up from the corn pile below, and after coaling proceeded to Louisville. The Silver Spray arrived last night with a big trip. She discharged 200 bales of cotton here.
